Courageous In Christ - Assembly 2026

"You shall love the Lord, your God, with all your heart, and you shall love your neighbor as yourself" (Mt 22:37, 39). Today the Lord also commands, "You shall not molest or oppress an alien" (Ex 22:20), a word that touches our own history, since this local Church was built in large part by migrants and exiles who carried their faith across a border. Archbishop Gustavo writes about this in his pastoral Letter, We Will Come to You. In two weeks, that century-old family gathers as one. Centennial Mass with Archbishop Gustavo: Saturday, November 7, Nelson W. Wolff Stadium. Gates 3 p.m., Mass 4 p.m. Final RSVPs are being accepted now at AssemblySA.org.

Valientes en Cristo - Assembly 2026

"Amarás al Señor, tu Dios, con todo tu corazón, y amarás a tu prójimo como a ti mismo" (Mt 22, 37. 39). Hoy el Señor manda también: "No maltrates ni oprimas al extranjero" (Ex 22, 20), palabra que toca nuestra propia historia, pues esta Iglesia local fue edificada en buena parte por migrantes y exiliados que trajeron su fe cruzando una frontera. El Arzobispo Gustavo escribe sobre esto en su Carta Pastoral, Regresaré a Ustedes. En dos semanas, esa familia centenaria se reúne como una sola. Misa del Centenario con el Arzobispo Gustavo: sábado 7 de noviembre, Estadio Nelson W. Wolff. Puertas 3 p.m., Misa 4 p.m. Se reciben los últimos registros en AssemblySA.org.

DID YOU KNOW.....

Did you know the Church says the ashes of our dead loved ones should not be spread out in nature?

I love to go fishing! Hold on, I promise my fishing story will tie into why we shouldn't spread grandpa's ashes across Goose Island. I especially love watching the sun rise across the water and reflecting on the greatness of God in all things created. I'll admit, when caught up in that moment, it's tempting to justify why it might be ok to spread a loved one's remains across the natural beauty of this Earth. After all, we were taken from dust and to dust we shall return. But then I remember that God says that we were not created for this world, and He will have us rise from our graves and put His Spirit into our dried bones. (Ezekiel 37:12-14) The Catholic Church teaches that our bodies are not simply shells that we leave behind when we die. From the moment of conception until natural death, the human body is part of the person God created, redeemed, and destined for eternal life. Because of this, the Church believes that human remains deserve profound respect, even after death. While the Church permits cremation, it asks that cremated remains be treated with the same dignity that would be given to a body in a traditional burial. This is why Catholics are not permitted to scatter ashes in the air, on land, or at sea, divide them among family members, or turn them into jewelry or keepsakes. Instead, the ashes should be laid to rest in a sacred place such as a cemetery, mausoleum, or church columbarium, not at home above the fireplace. At first glance, these rules can seem strict, but they are rooted in something beautiful; the Church's belief in the dignity of the human person and the hope of the resurrection. When a Catholic funeral concludes with burial or interment, it proclaims a powerful truth; we believe that death is not the end. Just as Christ rose from the dead, we too hope to share in His resurrection. Thus, we anticipate that at the second coming of Christ, we will indeed be reunited with our bodies. The respectful burial of human remains becomes a visible sign of that faith. It says, "This person mattered. This body was a temple of the Holy Spirit. This life is not forgotten." A sacred place of burial also provides a place for loved ones to pray, remember, and remain connected to those who have gone before us. Gravesites and columbarium become places of hope, where families can gather, offer prayers, and entrust their loved ones to God's mercy. Scattering ashes can unintentionally remove that physical place of remembrance and make the remains vulnerable to being forgotten or treated casually over time. The Church's guidance is not about rules for the sake of rules. It is about reverence, love, and hope. Every human person is made in the image of God. Everybody has been touched by God's grace throughout life. Even in death, that dignity remains. In recent years, the Vatican has acknowledged that in certain limited circumstances a very small portion of cremated remains may be retained in a meaningful location, provided it is done with reverence and does not replace the proper interment of the remains. However, the Church continues to prohibit the scattering of ashes because it does not adequately express the Christian understanding of the body and the resurrection. Ultimately, the Church asks us to treat human remains with the utmost respect because our faith teaches that every person is more than a memory. We are children of God, created for eternal life. The care we show to the bodies of the deceased becomes a final act of love, a witness to human dignity, and a silent proclamation of our hope that one day, in Christ, we will rise again. Do you know someone who may have unknowingly disrespected the remains of a loved one? Don't panic, your local parish office can offer guidance on the next steps. Stay tuned next week when we discuss why it's important to continue to instruct our children in the faith beyond Sunday Catechism class.

God Bless Deacon Frank
